

FLAGSHIP SHOW

Interview. Improvise. Illuminate.

Laughter enhances learning. The Theater of Public Policy's Flagship Show advances the understanding of complex ideas and issues by unpacking them through smart conversation and improvisational comedy. It's a perfect fit.

What's Needed:

- 1 hour to 90 minutes, depending on event
- An expert guest or panel of guests ready to be interviewed on a chosen topic
- An audience ready to think, learn, and laugh

How it works:

- We open with an on-stage interview with an expert or panel on a given subject. You choose the topic and the expert(s). This could be an organizational leader, a longtime member of the field, a journalist or academic, or just a very interesting person.
- Our host leads a thoughtful, respectful, and fun conversation with the on-stage guests
- The cast of The Theater of Public Policy then takes over the stage and crafts unscripted, improvisational theater inspired entirely by the preceding interview.
- The guests then take questions from the audience, engaging everyone in the process.
- We conclude the show with a final round of improv comedy that illuminates and demystifies a topic or idea, no matter how complex or wonky.
